LOST!

Tue, February 19th, 2002, Headquarters

This is what happens when I lie in my bed for most of the morning. I dream up self-centered hacks like this one. ME ME ME. If you want to get a copy of this you can grab one off of: sf.cacophony.org/2econddraft/

Reads as follows:

LOST
Innocence
Last seen: early 20's
(Between knowledge and understanding)
D.O.B: 12-02-75

Description: Innocence is known to be found in children, the wise and those at peace with their demons. Gives vision in an uncertain world and ability to withhold judgement of fellow man and sloppy kisses.

Approach carefully! Easily scared off by sudden movements, loud noises, greed, preconceptions, arrogance, failure to face failures. Likes biscuits.

IF FOUND PLEASE SHARE WITH OTHERS.
REWARD ALWAYS FOLLOWS.

Look for them around the Mission, then point them out to friends and say, "The guy who made those, he's a real jerk." Its makes me smile.

Cacophony events and shit

Planning Meeting — Wednesday, March 13th, 8pm

Well we learned our lesson at Pow!, next time we'll hold a meeting under a freeway to keep the noise at an acceptable level. We will also prevent the distraction of anime tentacle porn on the TV. Why are they always purple? Actually, the next meet will be Kilowatt at 16th and Albion (between Guerrero and Valencia). Bring ideas this time.

Brides of March — Saturday, March 16th, noonish

Never say we can't drive a good event into the ground. Be it the Salmon, Santas or the blushing Brides of March. I don't know where or when or who. Just email me, submissions@cacophony.org, or keep on eye on the Squid List.

Million Clown March — Saturday, March 16th, 4pm sharp!

Idiots think alike, and there are a bushel of idiots in Santa Cruz. We will merge forces with the Hippy Forest Elf Clowns of the South for greater good. By the way, they don't know were coming, lets not tell them!

Creamy Wieners — About a month

Cruelty, its the only way to explain this one. Caco Productions will be holding a casting call. We need an actor to be the mascot to head up the opening of a nationwide Hot Dog - Donut chain. Expect misery to follow. We are going to need help creating the costume, please collect any foam from old coaches you come across that smell reasonable. Contact sandwichgirl@hotmail.com when you have some foam. Contact me with jingles about hot dogs and donuts, submissions@cacophony.org

Super Kung-Fu Strutting Orchestra — TBA

We prank the Extra-Action Marching Band. Buy a mechanics jumpsuit, email submissions@cacophony.org for the announcement. Stay tuned, we wait to strike when the time is right. MUUUUHHAAHHHAAHAHA

Vegas Trip, Baby — March 28th - April 1st

Hit Vegas for an upcoming Rockabilly Convention and general reverie. Rachel heads this trip up and has secured New Frontier (in frontiers in quality I assume) at $89 fancy room, $69 shithole room at Dbl Occup. with $15 for each extra floormate. Flight is ~$120 through Orbitz.com. Contact Rachel for flight numbers and more info: 510 384 1175 or youmightthink2@yahoo.com

Guerilla Cleaning Brigade — Saturday, April 27th, noon

Yes, its a month away but it gives time to reflect and forget. So far there will be one meeting the Thursday before the hits, there could be more. The premise is simple, we dress up like cleaning staff, invade the hotel lobbies for a 2-minute synchronized cleaning session and dance. ## Love's Gonna Getcha

A clan of cacophonous Cupids clad in heart-patterned jammies, capes, and wings roamed the Fisherman's Wharf area on Thursday evening, spreading joy and candy to the love-struck multitudes. Armed with a substantial quiver of aphrodisiac-tipped arrows, the Cupids flitted about, bestowing kisses (the chocolate kind), wishing everyone a "Happy VD," and advising them to "play safe."

The Cupids had received authorization from the gods to perform guerilla weddings on unsuspecting couples, and they carried out their mandate with zeal. Several couples were startled to find themselves wrapped in wedding bell garland, serenaded, and sentenced to be joined at the hip 'til Death Do You Part. For the most part, they took it well, taking advantage of the occasion to smooch loudly in front of a willing audience.

One of the Cupids, the Robber Baron of Luuuuv, held up likely couples at Nerf-point, demanding instantaneous professions of devotion while a Patty Hearst lookalike toting a fierce Cupid's crossbow looked on. (The willingness of her participation is undetermined at this time, although she insisted, for some reason, on being called "Tanya-Cupid.") The Robber Baron was briefly stymied when he staged a holdup at the In 'n Out Burger, where the patrons appeared oblivious to the significance of the day. No love there.

Undeterred, the Cupids soldiered on until the candy ran out, leaving a devastating trail of passion, giggles, and quizzical glances in their wake. The gods were pleased.

Us idiots in the news

From the SF Chronicle, January 18th

<http://www.sfgate.com/cgi-bin/article.cgi?f=/c/a/2002/01/18/N.DTL&type=news>

Three dozen people who apparently could not live without the Zippy the Pinhead comic strip were so delighted by The Chronicle's decision to change its mind yesterday that they failed to pelt the newspaper building with glazed doughnuts.

The noisy, good-natured protest rally, held at noon at the front door of The Chronicle on Mission Street, actually ended with the protesters finding out they got what they wanted.

"The readers that asked us to return Zippy were passionate, amusing and thoughtful," said Deputy Managing Editor/Arts and Features Mi-Ai Parrish. "We're happy to welcome Zippy back into the pages of The Chronicle." The crowd erupted in cheers, and many doughnuts were tossed aloft.

Among the passionate and thoughtful people at yesterday's rally were a man banging a bass drum with a dinosaur bone, the bearer of three of Zippy's beloved giant Doggie Diner heads and several people handing out free Ding Dong cakes and taco sauce.

"Now what do we do?" asked several protesters aloud, and one man – clearly in the spirit of the unconventional, satirical strip – began a chant that was quickly picked up by the crowd.

"Cancel Zippy! Cancel Zippy!"

This is re-printed without the slightest hint of permission.

Cacophony Celebrity Snapshot of the Month

I shot this one at a club just too famous to mention and caught this dynamic duo, my good friends, Larry Harvey and Michaeleppe.
